Supporting North Carolina’s Families with Greatest Needs Since 1969

EFNEP helps address the challenges limited resource families face when introducing healthy changes through nutrition education, cooking classes, physical activity strategies, and shopping on a limited budget. EFNEP provides:

- Peer-to-peer, hands on education in the community
- Healthy, low-cost recipes
- Simple strategies to help families move more together

North Carolina’s Challenges

- In North Carolina, 1 in 5 children live in poverty.
- North Carolina’s adult obesity rate is currently 32%.
- 15.2% of 2- to 4-year-olds from low-income families are obese. This makes us the 16th most obese state.
- North Carolina has the 15th highest rate of diabetes and the 11th highest rate of hypertension.

WHAT IS EFNEP?

EFNEP serves limited-resource families with young children, school-age youth, and pregnant teens through a series of lessons offered by paraprofessionals and volunteers, many of whom are indigenous to the population. In 2019, EFNEP served 45 counties in North Carolina. Participants learned how to:

- Make wise food choices
- Increase daily physical activity
- Manage food resources
- Practice food safety

Participant’s Daughter Shares EFNEP’s Impact on Her Life

Several factors can influence a limited income family’s ability to consume a healthy diet. One of the most common is the lack of confidence in the kitchen. A poor knowledge of basic nutrition and inadequate cooking skills can negatively affect the selection and preparation of healthy foods.

Because research shows that classes which teach how to select and prepare nutritionally healthy foods on a restricted budget could enhance dietary intake, the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) in Mecklenburg county partnered with Hope Haven, a recovery center, to teach a 10-lesson series. Participants learned how to plan meals, shop smart, and keep foods safe as these skills also play an important part in providing healthy meals for their families. A hands-on food preparation activity allowed participants to prepare recipes that contained fresh produce and other nutritional foods. Their in-class EFNEP experiences gave each participant the confidence needed to plan, prepare and serve a variety of foods for their families at home.

It didn’t take long before the EFNEP participants were using the smart shopping skills learned to select more fruits and vegetables and fewer processed foods.

The daughter of a participant had this to say: “I ran into Ms. Washington, (the EFNEP Educator) last Sunday at a church service. She was visiting my church for the first time. I went up to her after church and reminded Ms. Washington who I was. When I was 18, I would sometimes attend the EFNEP nutrition classes with my mother. I learned so much about nutrition and exercising. I didn’t know the importance of eating fruits and vegetables every day. I used to eat a lot of processed foods and drink sugary drinks. I was so surprised to find out about all the health benefits of fruits and vegetables and how many calories are in sugary drinks. My mother passed away recently and I am thankful she made me go to class with her. Now, I eat vegetables and fruits at least two to three times a day, and I try my best to stay away from sugary drinks. I also try to teach my younger brother and sisters what I learned in the EFNEP classes. I recently enrolled in college, and I am majoring in Foods and Nutrition. Thanks, Ms. Washington for caring enough to come to the housing complex and teach us. It made me so happy to see you again.”
